COMPLIANT NAMES RENOWNED
HUMAN PERFORMANCE EXPERT, ROBERT A. LAUER, TO BOARD

Solon, Ohio, October 24, 2000—Compliant Corporation, the new economy solution for compliance, announced the election of Robert A. Lauer to its board of directors. Lauer is a 31-year veteran of Andersen Consulting (AC). Most recently he served as managing partner of AC's eHuman Performance Global Line of Business, which helps clients improve performance and quickly adapt to changing situations.

“Bob will add a new dimension to the board,” said Steve Lindseth, Compliant’s chief executive officer. “His business experience with a worldwide consulting leader like Andersen and his understanding of the use of the Internet to deliver knowledge and management solutions will be invaluable as Compliant deploys our Internet-based, enterprise management software.”

During Lauer’s tenure at Andersen he served in various leadership roles including Global Change Management for the communications and high technology sectors, Ohio Consulting Operations and the Cleveland office. He has been involved in a wide variety of strategic client initiatives including enabling of new technologies and creation of new businesses. Most recently, Lauer played a significant role in forging a strategic alliance between Andersen and Docent, Inc., a provider of eLearning solutions. Lauer also serves on Docent’s board of directors.

“Compliant’s unique focus on automating the compliance business process helps organizations leverage process-specific learning and automate procedures to materially reduce incidences of unsafe and unethical behavior,” said Lauer. “I’m excited to be part of this opportunity to change the way businesses manage compliance.”
